

MORGAN
SANTA LUCIA HIGHLANDS

91 POINTS

International
WINEREPORT

2020 Albarino

“An interesting take on Albarino with the wine being aged for five months in French and Hungarian oak, with 16% of the barrels being new. Displaying a beautiful light lemon color in the glass and producing aromas of ripe green apple, dried pineapple, dried herbs and hazelnut, this wine finishes with a savory and herbaceous way on the back palate that complements the high acidity and medium body.”

- Jeremy Young, January 2022

MORGAN
SANTA LUCIA HIGHLANDS

91 POINTS

International
WINEREPORT

2020 Albarino

“An interesting take on Albarino with the wine being aged for five months in French and Hungarian oak, with 16% of the barrels being new. Displaying a beautiful light lemon color in the glass and producing aromas of ripe green apple, dried pineapple, dried herbs and hazelnut, this wine finishes with a savory and herbaceous way on the back palate that complements the high acidity and medium body.”

- Jeremy Young, January 2022

MORGAN
SANTA LUCIA HIGHLANDS

91 POINTS

International
WINEREPORT

2020 Albarino

“An interesting take on Albarino with the wine being aged for five months in French and Hungarian oak, with 16% of the barrels being new. Displaying a beautiful light lemon color in the glass and producing aromas of ripe green apple, dried pineapple, dried herbs and hazelnut, this wine finishes with a savory and herbaceous way on the back palate that complements the high acidity and medium body.”

- Jeremy Young, January 2022

MORGAN
SANTA LUCIA HIGHLANDS

91 POINTS

International
WINEREPORT

2020 Albarino

“An interesting take on Albarino with the wine being aged for five months in French and Hungarian oak, with 16% of the barrels being new. Displaying a beautiful light lemon color in the glass and producing aromas of ripe green apple, dried pineapple, dried herbs and hazelnut, this wine finishes with a savory and herbaceous way on the back palate that complements the high acidity and medium body.”

- Jeremy Young, January 2022